

On Sunday, November 22nd @ 4pm
Acts On Stage Theater will premiere an online interactive broadcast of their first theatrically staged production

“12 Angry Men”

featuring (for the first time anywhere) an all Black Male cast!

This iconic courtroom drama takes audiences on a winding journey between the guilt or innocence of not just the defendant but of the American justice system itself. In a black and white society, we're forced to consider what truth lies within the gray areas of our hearts.

Acts On Stage is committed to using its work to elevate the arts and bring attention to matters that matter like racial equity, social justice and positive urban community engagement. This production allows us to bring awareness, attention, and action to these matters by utilizing the brilliance and beauty of the arts. Now, more than ever it is imperative that creativity creates change and that we inspire audiences to move from media consumption to the engagement of #ArtsAsActivism!

We invite your organization to use this tool to generate or continue conversation.

All of us are living in a dually-dynamic moment of response to a global pandemic and the resurgence of racial unrest in America.

While the pandemic requires us to stay SAFE, the resurgence insists that we can not be SILENT.
